CREAT STUDIOS ANNOUNCES DEMO OF DIGGER HD FOR THE PLAYSTATION® NETWORK

*Free-to-Play Version of Update to Classic '80s PC Game Available
February 18th in Europe, February 25th in North America*

February 16th, 2010 – Creat Studios (Canton, MA) today announced the release of a free-to-play demonstration version of Digger HD for the PlayStation® Network. The demo for Digger HD will be available for download on the PlayStation 3® computer entertainment system, offered via Sony's PlayStation® Network on February 18th in Europe and February 25 in North America.

Digger HD, a remake of the classic PC game, Digger™, from the early 80s, has received a major facelift for the new millennium, while staying true to its classic gameplay. Players control a little construction vehicle that must make its way through an underground maze. Gamers dig through the dirt horizontally and vertically to create their own path while collecting power-ups, jewels, coins and other bonuses while avoiding the pursuing monsters.

"Creat Studios is excited to make Digger HD available to all PSN players," Vladimir Starzhevsky, CEO and co-founder of Creat Studios. "We're confident that players of all ages will fall in love with its charming blend of high-end graphics and old-school gameplay."

Digger HD includes PlayStation 3 Trophy support and has been rated "E" for Everyone by the Entertainment Software Rating Board for this platform.
